Rounding Out the Salad Course.

For since the first of June, when the summer dress is simple and of herbs with the oil supplied by his olive orchard, salads have formed a most acceptable addition to the menu. And with the advent of the spring and summer months bringing a wealth of fresh vegetables and fruits, it should be every housewife's pleasure to make salad a part of her meal.

Salads in themselves are delicious, but the accompaniments which round out the course are oftentimes its making, as the following unusual recipes can not help but proclaim.

For Rolled Swedish Waters, allow one or two waters for each portion. Put many waters as can be contained conveniently in a colander over a kettle of boiling water, allowing the steam to reach each water. When the waters are soft, remove them from the colander one by one, rolling each water up carefully like a jelly roll and then allow the rolled waters to stand one day before serving. Just before serving, coat the waters with melted butter and place in a pie pan about 400° F. until they are crisp. Serve hot with the salad course.

Hot, Buttered Potatoes, which are the unquenched thirst of the Jews, are a delicious accompaniment for salad. The crackers come about the size of a pie, and these crackers into fourths, spread with plenty of butter, and place in a hot oven to crisp. Serve at once.

These Apples suggest one of the most attractive and unique salad accompaniments and are well worth the time expended in making them. Lay out one large (six-ounce) package of cream cheese, place in a bowl, and chill thoroughly in the refrigerator. Then cream the cheese with a fork until pliable and slightly soft. Divide it into small portions, using a spoon to place a portion into the buttered paddles, form each portion into a round ball as in making butterballs. Sprinkle the surface of the large plate with paprika and roll each ball in the paprika, entirely covering its surface with a light coating of the same. Now select whole cloves of uniform size and stick one in the end of each cheese ball, the end of the clove forming the stem of the clove. Lay out a tray of cream, fern, or other stems into suitable lengths and insert a stem in the other end of each "apple."

For Cheese Carrots, chill pimiento cheese well. Then divide the cheese into portions and shape each into a carrot, resembling small carrots. Stick a sprig of parsley or carrot green in the large end of the "carrots," and they are ready to serve.

For Cheese Souffle on toast, cut bread into rounds of dainty size and toast on both sides. Chop canned Mexican green chiles, from which the seeds have been removed, very fine. Spread over the entire surface of the toast. Place a heat to a stiff froth the whites of two eggs and add to them enough grated American cheese to make thick paste. Spread the paste over the layer of chopped chiles, and then place the toast under the low flame of a broiler until the cheese melts and is brown. Serve at once.

For Cheese Jelly, melt two cups of grated American cheese by placing it in the top of a double-boiler. Meanwhile, whip one-half cup of cream, and when quite stiff, add to the cheese. Beat gradually, beating constantly. Add two teaspoons of granulated gelatin, which has been soaked for five minutes in one-fourth cup of cold water. Beat until the mixture is thick and creamy. Pour the mixture into it. Chill until set, cut into small squares, and serve with the salad.

For Cheese Straws, either puff paste or plain paste may be used. Roll the paste into sheets one-fourth inch thick. Sprinkle one half of the sheet with grated cheese, the other half with the second half of the sheet. Roll the sheet into a roll, and then cut into strips one-fourth inch thick. Sprinkle with cheese and proceed as before, repeating the process. Then cut into strips five inches long and one-fourth inch wide. Bake at 500° F. for ten minutes. Fill the grooves in lattice fashion for serving.

Protect the Toes of Baby's Shoes—When my young son was ill and it was necessary to isolate her from other children, she very quickly missed their companionship and lost interest in her meals. Trays that were sent to her, simply covered with a napkin and containing only the necessary child, seemed to make no appeal to her appetite. To tempt her, I used a paper napkin, and placed on it yellow children dressed in a red paper coat and hat, a tiny blue doll with long hair, a chocolate, picture, picture of a child, and a box of soap. No article cost more than ten cents. Then every tray that was sent to my little girl carried one of these articles, which came to her as a surprise. She finally reached the stage where she eagerly anticipated her tray, and the sick child was no longer a burden to the sick child.

It's hard on the walls when boys "wash up"

Walls and woodwork painted with Barreled Sunlight can be washed like tile

GETTING clean is a strange and violent process with boys—and even with many grown-ups. And how that bathroom is apt to look when the "washing up" is completed! Smudgy fingermarks, soapy water, lather everywhere!

Ordinary paints have a surface that is not really smooth but is actually rough and porous—full of tiny holes and crevices in which dirt is bound to cling.

Barreled Sunlight is made by a special process which produces a smooth, lustrous surface that can be washed like tile. Costs less than enamel, requires fewer coats and remains white longer. Easy to apply. Flows readily and leaves no brush marks.

In hotels, apartments, restaurants, stores—interiors where light and cleanliness are desired—use Barreled Sunlight. Comes ready mixed in cans from half-pint to five-gallon size—barrels and half-barrels.
